GoAir added a new Airbus 320 to its fleet taking the total number of aircraft with the airline to nine, according to a statement from the company on Monday.

The Chief Executive Officer of GoAir, Mr Kaushik Khona, said in the statement that with the introduction of the new aircraft, the airline will be operating 890 commercial flights per week under the new winter schedule. Currently, the airline operates 730 flights a week.

“We plan to add 10th A320 by October 2010 and also introduce four new routes,” he said.
